REPTON Festival OFFERS national SHOWCASE for FILM-MAKERS

Local film and music video makers have the chance to put their talent in front of Peaky Blinders award-winning director Tom Harper at this year's debut Repton Film Festival. But they only have until the 10th June to do it.

Tom, who also directed This is England '86 and Misfits, will give a one-hour exclusive mentoring session to the overall winner of the competition to find exciting new film and music video talent.

A top prize of £500 is on offer along with the chance to have work screened and to mix with film and music industry professionals. With an entry fee of only £10 it's a unique chance for established and aspiring filmmakers and music video makers to showcase their work.

"We know the talent is out there and we want to give newcomers and experienced film and music video makers the chance to shine," says festival organiser Tom Craig. "With entry categories covering drama, documentary, comedy animation, music video and 'student', there is something for everyone - and a great chance for entrants to pick up a prize."

Deadline for entries is 10th June 2022. Details are available on the festival website
